

WeAreAmerican.bank

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Jan. 10, 2019

American Bank Center selects new Dickinson Regional President

Dickinson, N.D. - American Bank Center is pleased to announce Jared Bullinger as the new Dickinson regional president. Bullinger will move into his new role upon Bruce Dolezal's retirement in March 2019. American thanks Bruce for his years of dedicated service.

Born and raised on a ranch near Dickinson, Bullinger understands the needs of western North Dakota. He has been with American more than a decade and will be responsible for the external services of the Dickinson region with an emphasis on business and ag lending.

"I look forward to expanding relationships and building business partnerships within the communities we serve" says Bullinger.

Bullinger joined American in 2005 as an agriculture banking officer. In 2012, he moved to the credit officer position and in 2014 was promoted to vice president of external services. Bullinger earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Agribusiness from North Dakota State University and went on to obtain his Master of Science in Agricultural Economics in 2005. He is a 2010 graduate of the Graduate School of Banking at Colorado.

To learn more about American Bank Center, visit WeAreAmerican.bank.

About American Bank:

Comprised of American Bank Center, American Insurance Center and American Trust Center, American is an employee-owned financial institution that offers customers a complete financial services package. With 18 locations in 13 communities in North Dakota and Montana, American's commitment to its communities is illustrated through financial contributions to community incentives and fundraising events. To learn more, visit WeAreAmerican.bank.

###